New Zealand beef has all the qualities beef lovers are looking for - it's lean, tender, fine textured, full of flavour and naturally nutritious.

Year-round supplies of lean and tender beef are available to customers worldwide, and regular shipping to major markets provides delivery when it's required.

The New Zealand climate allows for year-round grazing on rich pastures, producing what is arguably the finest naturally-produced beef in the world.

We offer a full range of chilled and frozen beef cuts packed to customers requirements and specifications. General specifications include grade, weight range, trimming and packaging but more detailed specifications are possible.

Silver Fern Farms and Richmond brand chilled beef is a recognised leading brand in selected world markets. This quality is in part due to the selection criteria for meat and fat colour, but also because of the group's ability to maintain 12-month supply.

Chilled beef has a minimum 12-week shelf life, provided optimum storage conditions are maintained.
